

WILL GROVER SIGN THE TARIFF BILL?

WASHINGTON AT LOSS TO SOLVE THE RIDDLE.

If He Didn't Intend To Affix His Signature to the Hybrid Measure, Why Did He Leave Gray Gables—Time Limit Doesn't Expire Until Next Monday.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Nothing can be learned at the white house as to the intentions of the president concerning the tariff bill and from the fact that the President returned to the city at this time instead of remaining at Buzzard's Bay over Sunday the inference was drawn that he had concluded to sign the measure after all. If he had determined to let the bill become a law without putting his signature to it he might just as well have remained at Gray Gables fishing, for the prescribed time limit will not expire until next Monday at midnight.

The general sentiment in congress continues to be that Mr. Cleveland will sign the bill under protest and accompany it by a peculiarly salty message. Nothing remains for either house to do except to await the President's pleasure.

The action of the senate yesterday in sending the sergeant-at-arms to look for absentees is taken as an indication of the democratic steering committee is in earnest in its declaration that the senate will be held in session until action is taken on the bills correcting the most manifest errors in the new tariff act. In spite of this fact, however, if the President's action should become known to-day an adjournment of both houses would speedily follow and the general impression is the present week will see the end of the second session of the Fifty-third congress.

But Few Bad Blunders Discovered. WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The legislative and engrossing clerks of the senate have been comparing the statement of errors in the new tariff bill, made in various papers, and say there are only two or three errors that need to be given to importers or officers of the treasury any concern. These are the paragraphs relating to free admission of alcohol in the arts, the diamond schedule, and perhaps the omission of a period in the paragraph relating to stamping foreign manufactures. As to the other errors enumerated, it is said by these clerks that by no system of construction can the alleged mistakes in punctuation be made either to impose higher duties or to allow the free admission of articles named. Members of the finance committee are of the same opinion.

STATE AND NATION.

Judge Cooley on the Recent Strike Complications.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The American Bar association convened at 10 o'clock yesterday with a large attendance. In the absence of Judge Cooley of Michigan Judge Hunt presided and read Judge Cooley's address. The address at once directed his attention to the Coxy movement and the recent railroad boycott and strike and the restless demand of the idle that good times be legislated into existence.

Referring to state and federal rights and the protest of Gov. Altgeld, it said:

"There were national duties to be performed in Illinois. But the position of the governor was that the maintenance of peace and the repression of disorder was a state duty and the President was guilty of usurpation when he thus without request moved troops into the state for the purpose. We can not admit that the position taken is even plausible. It has no warrant whatever in the federal constitution. Yet if the views of the governor were accepted as sound, the mails might be stopped at Chicago, interstate commerce broken up and the process of United States courts refused service unless the governor when disorder was dominant saw fit to suppress it or call upon the President to do so. The action taken by the two houses of congress in approving in emphatic terms what had been done by the President was equivalent to an expression of their opinion that the protest of the governor was not only unwarranted but revolutionary. The sentiment of the country, as expressed in its public journals and otherwise, was to the same effect and the question of constitutional law may be practically settled."

CALLAHAN IS CONVICTED.

New Orleans Mayor Found Guilty in Bribery Scandal.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 23.—At 11:35 yesterday there was a commotion in the court room, caused by the announcement that the jury had reached a verdict in the Callahan case. Deputy Boya came into court and saw Judge Moise, who at once ascended the bench and ordered the jury brought down. The accused was brought in and the different attorneys took their places. Capt. James Buckley took his seat in the front row as foreman and the jury was polled. Then a verdict of guilty was presented. There was an immense crowd when the announcement was made, and the news spread with great rapidity. Callahan received the news calmly. The crime for which John T. Callahan was convicted was demanding and receiving bribes while a member of the city council. The most important count was the demand made on Lyman S. Widney, a coal dealer, who desired certain wharf privileges in order to successfully conduct his business. After several interviews with Callahan in regard to the matter, Mr. Widney paid the amount demanded ($500), and soon afterward the council granted the privilege required. There were several other indictments against Callahan for similar offenses.

MILLS STILL CLOSED AND STRIKERS OUT

NO CHANGE IN THE NEW BEDFORD SITUATION.

Both Sides Are Determined as Ever—Affairs at Fall River—State Board of Arbitration May Take Action in the Matter—General Labor News.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 23.—The strike situation has undergone no material change. All the mills remain closed, and both sides seem to be as determined as ever. Secretary Ross of the Spinners' union and Treasurer Howland yesterday had a conference at which the date of the reopening of the Howland corporation's mill was determined. The various unions held meetings yesterday. At a mass-meeting on the common a speaker declared the weavers had the right to go into every mill in the city and cut the cloth off their looms. Mayor Brownell has called a conference of the manufacturers and operatives for this evening.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 23.—In the mills here there is an increase of 2,500 looms over yesterday and 1,000 over Monday. The Cornell mill did not open yesterday and the Tecumseh stopped at noon, while the Osborne will shut down to-night. The gain in looms is in the Merchant, Seacomet, and Pocasset mills. The spinners in the Globe and Sanford mills struck at noon yesterday. The mills closed at once and now 1,000 more operators are idle.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 23.—The state board of arbitration has notified the New Bedford manufacturers and the striking employees it will gladly undertake to settle their differences, but as yet has not received an answer from either side. Relief at Pullman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—The work of relief is on in earnest at Pullman, and judging from the way response was made yesterday, even before the ink on the governor's proclamation was dry, it promises good results. The company still refuses to aid the work of relief in any way.

MAJORS FOR GOVERNOR.

Nominated by the Nebraska Republican Convention at Omaha.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 23.—The state republican convention was called to order at 11 yesterday by Chairman Slaughter of the state central committee. Capt. C. E. Adams of Superior was chosen temporary chairman. After the appointment of committees the temporary organization was made permanent and the convention proceeded at once to ballot for governor.

There were only two men in the race—Thomas J. Majors of Peru and John H. MacColl of Lexington.

An informal ballot was taken and this gave Majors 522 of the 922 delegates present, and the nomination was made unanimous. When the result was announced Mr. E. Rosewater, Nebraska member of the republican national committee, addressed a letter to Chairman Abbott of the state convention resigning his position on the national committee. The action is likely to cause a wide breach in the republican party of Nebraska. The full ticket is as follows: For governor, Thomas M. Majors; lieutenant-governor, R. E. Moore; secretary of state, J. A. Piper; auditor, Eugene Moore; state treasurer, Joseph S. Bartley; superintendent of public instruction, H. B. Corbett; attorney-general, A. S. Churchill; commissioner of public lands and buildings, H. C. Russell.

Only one set of resolutions were submitted, and were adopted without protest. The platform announces its continued hostility to the democratic party and says:

"We demand the restoration of the American policy of protection and commercial reciprocity with our sister republics of Mexico, South and Central America and the government of the West India islands."

As to the financial situation the convention declares the "party in Nebraska has always been the consistent friend and aggressive champion of honest money, and it now takes no step backward. While favoring bimetalism and demanding the use of both gold and silver as standard money, the convention insists that the parity of the value of the two metals be maintained, so that every dollar, paper or coin, issued by the government shall be as good as any other."

The platform declares for more state control of railroads, the adoption of a maximum freight rate bill and insists that no road shall issue stock or bonds except for property actually received and applied to the purpose for which said corporation was created.

NEW RULES FORMED.

Many Changes in the Sons of Veterans' Constitution.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Aug. 23.—The work of the commandery in chief of the Sons of Veterans yesterday gave assurance of the large amount of reconstruction legislation that will be enacted at the present encampment. The three-degree ritual was approved and referred back to the committee to make a few necessary changes and then adopted. The age of eligibility was reduced from 21 years to 18. The regiments of the independent organization of the Sons of Veterans Guard were placed under the jurisdiction of the division commanderies. The guard as an independent national organization is done away with. Heretofore the only visitors allowed at meetings of the camps have been members of the Grand Army. It was decided to admit hereafter any honorably discharged Union soldier of sailor. It was decided to allow division commanderies to establish permanent quartermasters by a two-thirds vote for terms not exceeding three years. These and other changes in the constitution will be incorporated in a new digest or blue book, which will be ordered printed before the encampment closes.

LOOKS LIKE CAPITAL'S TURN NOW

Employers' Inning Before Strike Commissioners—Witness in Pullman's Behalf.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Organized labor has had its day in court before the labor commission. Now the employers will be invited to make answer to the charges preferred by Mr. Debs and his associates. The hearing of evidence from the employers' side of the case was begun yesterday. Some business men from the town of Pullman were examined, and before the inquiry closes it is expected that the officials of the Pullman company and the Illinois Central and the Rock Island railroad companies will appear.

The first witness on behalf of the Pullman company was Frank W. T. Glover, a real estate agent living at 326 Michigan avenue.

"Were you asked to appear here by the Pullman company?" asked Commissioner Wright.

"I don't know," replied Mr. Glover, laughing. "I met on the train going to Kensington a gentleman who asked me if I would give my views. He is not connected with the Pullman company and I do not know whether he acted for the company or some one else."

"What do you know of the relative values of rentals in Pullman and surrounding towns?"

"I can speak only of Kensington, where I have a subdivision and rent houses. I know nothing of the rents at Pullman except from the papers. I know nothing of the Pullman houses except from seeing their exterior. I would consider from these observations that the Pullman houses which rent for from $18 to $23 a month were cheaper than my houses at Kensington which I rent for $12. In my houses there are no conveniences, except running water in one room. For a decent workingman they are not inviting. We make no repairs; the tenants make whatever repairs they wish. When Pullman tenants have come to us to rent our houses they invariably talk about the beautiful homes they left. The surroundings of the Pullman houses are much more desirable than mine."

Paul E. Hermes, a news and stationery dealer in Pullman, who had worked for six years in the Pullman shops, was the next witness. Mr. Hermes said that he, personally, had no fault to find with the Pullman company. When the strike came on in 1894 he left the town and did not return till the strike was ended. The recent strike, he said, was caused by the dissatisfaction of the employees with the wages. The works had just passed through a prosperous year, and when wages were cut and work was to be had only three days a week the men were dissatisfied.

This concluded the list of witnesses for the morning session and the commissioners adjourned to 1:30 o'clock. At the afternoon session Chief of Police Brennan was called to tell of the actions and policy of the police during the strike. Assistant Fire Chief Fitzgerald was also summoned to tell of the fires in the stock yards district.

Fed to a Thrashing Machine, Killing One Man and Injuring Two.

AKRON, Ohio, Aug. 23.—While thrashers were at work on the farm of George Whitner on the western edge of the city a box of dynamite was found concealed in a sheaf of wheat. Half an hour later a dynamite cartridge, which had been secreted in another sheaf, was fed to the separator and exploded, wrecking the machine and setting fire to the barn. John Whitner, Jacob Meyer, and Charles Lacey attempted to rescue the horses in the barn. They failed and Meyer lost his life in the attempt, while Whitner was fatally and Lacey painfully injured. Four horses, one mule, and several cattle were burned to death and Whitner's entire wheat and oat crop and many farm implements were destroyed. Loss $6,000, partly insured.

THREE MEN KILLED IN A C. & N.W. WRECK

TRIO OF TRAMPS MEET DEATH
THIS MORNING.

Freight Train Due Here a Few Minutes Before Eight O'clock This Morning Demolished at Fort Atkinson—Passengers From the Accommodation Put on the 6:40 Train.

Three unknown tramps were killed by a wrecked freight train on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad near Fort Atkinson at 6 o'clock this morning. The unfortunate men were horribly mangled.

The freight was due in Janesville a few minutes before 8 o'clock, just ahead of the accommodation from the north.

The north bound train which left here at 6:40 o'clock proceeded to the wreck two miles north of Fort Atkinson, where the passengers were transferred and then both trains backed up, one to Janesville and the other to Jefferson.

Engineer John Roberts, who left here in charge of the 6:40 train, said: "I do not know what caused the wreck. Three tramps were killed, and a large number of cars were demolished and scattered on both sides of the track for some distance. The road is blocked and we made transfers and returned, backing the train to Janesville. The other train backed up to Jefferson. None of the trainmen were injured.

Besides the tramps who were killed two were so badly hurt that they can not live. There were six in a box car and only one escaped. The train was No. 536 in charge of Conductor Al. Smith and Engineer Martin Rowe. The train broke in two while coming down the grade and after separating the halves came together with a crash. Eight cars were demolished and were burned as the easiest way to clear the track.

The wrecking train, under Foreman Henry Crane, went to the scene of the wreck at 8:30, when the track was cleared in time to let the south bound Green Bay passenger pass at 12 o'clock, the train reaching Janesville on time at 12:20.

The collision of two freight trains on the Chicago & Northwestern road at Madison forced a heavily loaded car through one of the buildings at the gas works.

THE HIGHEST OF HONORS

To Dr. Price at the Great Fair.

Chicago Tribune: For leavening power, keeping qualities, purity and general excellence the World's Fair jury decided that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder had no equal. On each of its claims it was awarded a first prize or a diploma. All the baking powders entered for prizes were subjected to a most exhaustive examination, and the jury was the best equipped to make the decision of any ever got together. Their verdict was supported by the testimony of Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington. Dr. Wiley is an expert on food products and the highest authority on such matters in America. This verdict settles a long debated question as to which among the many baking powders is the best.

Note—Since the foregoing was published the World's Fair triumph has been confirmed by Highest Award and Gold Medal at the California Midwinter Fair.

RUSSIAN THISTLE IS DISCOVERED.

Rock County Visited by This Destructive Weed Pest.

The Russian thistle, the most serious weed pest ever known in the northwest is now growing in Rock county. A few plants were found a day or two ago on farm land near Evansville. There was no more reason to expect that it would be found there than at any other point along lines of railway leading from the northwest.

Farmers of the Dakotas are earnestly asking for state and national aid in destroying this pest. Individual action there can do little good. But individual action can prevent the weed spreading in Wisconsin. If all will look for and destroy it wherever found large loss and expenditure in the future may be avoided.

The plants resemble in a general way the common tumble weeds of the prairie. They differ much in appearance, some being almost round, many quite straggling in form. The leaves are small, the spines or thorns abundant. At this time of the year these thorns are soft. The stems of the plant are now beginning to assume a purplish color. The plant is an annual. If pulled or cut now there is no probability of further trouble.

PASTORS IN A SUMMER CAMP.

Rev. Sophie Gibb One of Those Attending the Tower Hill Assembly.

Rev. Sophie Gibb of this city, is in camp at Tower Hill, near Spring Green. The assembly seems to be more popular this year than last and many prominent Unitarian and Universalist ministers present, among them being the Rev. Joseph Crocker of Helena, Mont., Rev. Ella Bartlett Rev. Florence Kollock, Rev. Hugenholz, Rev. Cochran, pastor of Christ's Presbyterian church, Madison, Rev. John Faville, pastor First Congregational church, Appleton. Prof. Flint of the state university, the Rev. Celia P. Wooley, Mrs. M. J. Savage, Mrs. Florence Griswold Backstaff, of Oshkosh, and the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones. The object of the assembly is to create a restful retreat for city people and an intellectual inspiration to the country people who are deprived during the rest of the year of much of the mental stimulus which contact with highly cultured minds afford. The Tower Hill folks camp out all summer, following the "plain living and high thinking" ideal. There is not a set programme, but every day there is a lecture or address by some prominent thinker.

BIG FISH CAUGHT IN PORTER.

Gibbs Lake Furnishes a 17 1/2 Pound Pickerel—Tobacco Being Harvested.

PORTER, Aug. 23—The largest fish ever taken from Gibbs Lake, was landed last Monday by Bert Montgomery, it being a pickerel weighing seventeen and a half pounds. About one-half of the harvesting in this vicinity is through with, most of the work being done by engine. The Misses Abbie and Lizzie McCarthy and Carrie Cowel were among those who spent Sunday at Devil's Lake. Mr. Bligh of Johnstown, was a visitor here recently. A few crops of tobacco are being harvested this week. Mr. and Mrs. R. Earle are rejoicing over the safe arrival of their first born, a daughter, who put in an appearance August 12. Joseph Connors of Janesville, was a visitor here one day last week. Will McCarthy of Dunkirk, has engaged the school in the Montgomery district for the winter term. The Spaulding children of Chicago, who have been spending the summer vacation at Jacob Linaus's will return home September 1. Frank Van Wart of Beloit, visited his parental home on Thursday riding overland on a bicycle. Harry Hugget was thrown from his wagon while returning from town one evening recently but was not seriously injured. A number of our school ma'ams expect to attend the examination in Evansville Thursday and Friday, also a teachers' institute in that village next week. WIFE WENT AWAY, LEAVING A NOTE

MRS. WILL G. JACKS TAKES AB-RUPT LEAVE.

While Her Husband Was at Work She Packed Her Trunk and Took the 9:30 Train For Points Unknown—Friends Are Much Surprised at Her Act.

Mrs. Will G. Jacks was missing when her husband went home to dinner today. Instead there was a note telling him that he needn't hunt, he would never see her again.

At the C. M. & St. P. depot it was said that Mrs. Jacks took the 9:30 train, buying a ticket as far as Milton Junction. A man was with her who answered to the description of the hired man that worked for Mr. Jacks all last summer. The man had been around the Jacks home several times in the last week, and was twice ordered out by the angry husband.

Mrs. Jacks, who is a very attractive young woman formerly lived in Beloit. Her husband noticed a week ago that she seemed uneasy and spoke to her parents. Friends of the couple say he was very attentive to his young wife and are much surprised at her desertion. In another column Mr. Jack publishes an announcement that hereafter he will pay no debts contracted by his wife.

THE DAWN OF A NEW DAY.

Many Signs of Improvement in the Business World Are to Be Seen.

And now for business. The tariff question is settled. Manufacturers and merchants who have been waiting eighteen long months to ascertain on what basis they were to run their business now know at last which way to turn and on what courses to steer their craft. They know the worst and can rapidly accommodate their ventures and investments to the new conditions. The prolonged drouth had inspired general fears of an almost total crop failure. The apprehension is removed. The harvest has turned out much better than anyone anticipated. It is poor in spots, but on the average the results are fairly satisfactory. The crazy, cruel, suicidal strikes which paralyzed all business for several months are out of the way. And all these concurring causes have brought a deep feeling of relief to the whole community, as if the shadow of some dark eclipse accompanied by strange abnormal tempests with awful potents and dire convulsions, had passed away and left a serene and cloudless sky. Everybody feels this sense of emergence from an era of calamity, and everybody is conscious of stronger and more vigorous pulse of business life. It is common talk that there is increased activity in trade circles and that business is rapidly on the mend. There is no great rush of orders or purchasers. But the signs of improvement are visible and palpable. They are the first low wash of the wave that are to be followed by a rising tide of prosperity. The darkness has rolled away. This is the dawn of a new day.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

LEISURE COMES AT TWILIGHT.

Supper-Table Reading the Busy Man's Most Universal Solace.

There is one point of daily newspaper evolution which the morning press never dares to discuss. It is the fact that the great mass of readers have no time to read a morning issue. The evening paper has the best field by all odds; for what doth it profit a man to publish a paper in the morning if the people perversely won't stop their vocations in the forenoon to peruse it? They insist on doing their reading in the evening; hence they naturally prefer to take the evening paper, containing today's news, rather than the morning one with yesterday's news.—Toledo Blade.

SCRAPS OF COMEDY.

"Have you, heard the 8-year-old German boy violinist?" "Oh, yes; twelve years ago in Berlin!" "Does your wife put up all her can stuff herself?" "Certainly. Self-preservation is the first law of nature."

"Miss—I wish to know how to have my photograph taken so as to please dear Charley. Familiar Maid—Let me sit for you, Miss Emma."

"I like to go to Mr. Howler's church on account of the choir." "Why, I heard they'd quarreled among themselves and didn't sing now." "Yes; that's why I like them."

Pipkin—Positively, I must go home after the next jackpot. Potts—Wife been scolding you again? Pipkin—Worse than that; she has had a time-lock put on the street door.

"How did you come to make friends with that horrid Mrs. Scratch?" "Why, she had an imported gown that fitted her horribly, and I wanted a chance to tell her of it."

Hotel Clerk, at the summer resort hotel—The man in No. 93 complains about this bill. Proprietor—He does, does he? Well, you just make it out again on another sheet of paper and add in an extra charge for doing it. We're not going to have any grounds for complaint in this hotel, not much we ain't.

"You country people make lots of funny mistakes when you come to town," said the city young man. "Yep," replied the gentle farmer; "but when we remember what a lot of argy'fin' it takes to convince some city folks that gooseberries don't necessarily come from egg plants, we sorter learn ter bear up."

BRETHREN PRODDED ONE ANOTHER

William Smith's Speech Aroused Excitement at the Democratic Convention.

The democrats have a very clever faculty of holding a "rousing" county convention with nearly half the county unrepresented. Their organ, in reporting the proceedings, omits mention of the fact that the towns of Avoa, Center, Clinton, Janesville, Johnstown, La Prairie, Magnolia, Newark and Plymouth, had no accredited representatives in the "rousing" convention. That speech of William Smith's was not only a rousing one, but it poked Supervisor C. C. McLean so hard on the county asylum contract that it knocked McLean clear off his base. When he left the court house Supervisor McLean even forgot that he had a horse and buggy at the hitching post and walked right by it to his livery stable. It was late in the evening before he recovered, and after inquiring of his men the whereabouts of the missing rig, his senses returned, and he remembered that he left it at the court house park. Supervisor McLean, with a number of his democratic colleagues took active and enthusiastic part in forwarding the asylum contract, and Mr. Smith should pick his steps carefully when he attempts to arouse enthusiasm among the down-hearted and wavering democrats.

ATHLETICS HAVE A STRONG NINE.

Field Is in Much Better Shape Than in the Earlier Games.

The Athletics came to bat in the game with the All Universities of Milwaukee to-day a very different club from that which started the season. The two teams lined up in this fashion:

All Universities—J. Fowle, left field; F. Dawey, center field; C. H. Kimmel, short stop; C. Rodde, first base; H. Buestrin, second base; J. H. Gates, third base; Gregerson, right field; J. Rodde, pitcher.

"Our outfield is a good deal stronger than it was," said Captain Wilbur. "The boys get everything that comes their way and they can throw the ball home when they get it. We don't have to 'pass' it along the way you would a foot ball. And the colts can bat, too."

"How are the club's finances?" "Well, we don't expect to make any money this year. If we play even we are satisfied and next year we hope for better things."

TAKE IN THE GIRLS AT BELOIT COLLEGE

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN RULES IS RUMORED.

Understood That a Seminary Course Will Be Added Soon, and Young Ladies Will Be Admitted—Would Then Conflict with Rockford College.

It is reported in Rockford papers that the faculty of Beloit college has decided to change the course of the institution and instead of making it a school strictly for young men, a seminary course will be added and the dear girls will be added as pupils. The matter has been under consideration for a long time and it is understood has been favorably decided.

If such is the case it will not prove very welcome news to the friends of Rockford college who have always taken an interest in Beloit because it was an institution for young men and did not conflict with the Rockford school. It may be different in the future, however.

Brought Her Repartee Along.

Just as the door of the city clerk's office was due to be closed the other night two young ladies called and stated that they were looking for a marriage license.

"This is not the place," explained the sober-faced clerk. "The clerk of the court issues them at the court house, but you are too late to get down there before he goes home."

"Isn't that provoking?" remarked one of the maidens, with a pout equally provoking. "They told us that this was the place to get licenses."

"It is. Dog licenses," the facetious clerk answered.

"The license is for me, not you, sir," answered the girl, and a deep hush fell over the city seal.—Minneapolis Journal.

Magnetic Nervine quickly restores lost manhood and youthful vigor. Sold by Smith's Pharmacy.

When Our Liver Reprimands Us

For our neglect of it by inflicting upon us sick headache, by dyeing the skin yellow, coating the tongue with fur, producing vertigo, pains in the right side and souring the breath, we are little less than lunatics if we disregard the chastisement. If we call Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to our aid, tranquility and health follow speedily, and with the departure of the symptoms mentioned, departs also irregularity of the bowels, which invariably attends disorder of the liver. In malarial complaints the liver is always involved, and it is a fortunate circumstance that this fine anti-bilious medicine is also the most specific in existence for every form of malarial disease. Nor is it less efficacious for dyspepsia, failure of appetite and strength, nervousness and a rheumatic tendency. It renews the ability to sleep, and greatly promotes convalescence after wasting diseases.

Professor Birkholz, the German hair specialist, who has made a wonderful success of curing baldness and causing the hair to grow thick on heads of ladies and gentlemen, has a large business established in the Masonic Temple, Chicago, and with his assistants will give his attention to those who are in need of hair. The professor will examine your scalp free of charge, and should he find that the follicles are not destroyed or the pores of the scalp not closed, your case will be pronounced curable, but where the head is slick and shiny there is no cure. Call and see him or write him 1011 Masonic Temple Chicago.

THREE COMPANIES ARE INCORPORATED.

JANESVILLE BUSINESS MEN FINALLY ORGANIZED.

Dry Extract Company Formed by Richard W. Long, Samuel and William J. Meadows—Richardson Shoe Co. Includes Two Energetic Young Men—Pressed Brick Making

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the register of deeds of Rock County by three separate organizations or companies representing an aggregate capital of over one hundred and seventeen thousand dollars.

The first company is the "Woodland-Clay Red Pressed Brick Company," which files articles of association with a capital of one hundred thousand dollars, divided into one thousand shares of $100 each. O. Lansing DeForest and George G. Sutherland are the incorporators. The objects of this corporation are the manufacture and sale of brick, lime, rubble and building stone. It is a Janesville company, and its offices are to be located in this city.

The A. Richardson Shoe Company of this city has filed articles of incorporation, with a capital of $10,000 divided into shares of $100 each. Alex. Richardson, John C. Robinson and Henry M. Edwards are the incorporators. The objects of the company are the dealing, wholesale and retail, in boots, shoes, footwear, rubbers, etc., and repairing the same.

The "Dry Extract Company," capital $75,000 has also been filed, the company having for its object the manufacture and sale of foods and food products. Richard W. Long, Samuel Long and William J. Meadows are the incorporators. Amended articles were also filed, signed by Richard W. Long, president, and R. F. Hetherington, secretary. This is the company which recently leased the old plant of the Family Friend Publishing Co. at Spring Brook.

NEW PAVING BIDS NECESSARY. Alderman Smith Objects to the Expense Necessary on Milwaukee Street.

New bids for paving West Milwaukee street are likely to be called for. The trouble all comes from a change in the specifications. On River street and Main street the graders were called upon to carry superfluous dirt two blocks away. On Milwaukee street the distance is fixed at anything less than five.

"This moving of gravel and earth for five blocks is all very well," said Alderman Ed. Smith when he discovered the change, "but it will cost the people along the street quite a sum. There is no need of moving it five blocks. Two blocks will do quite as well. When the bids are brought up in the council next Monday I shall move that they be left unopened and that a change be made in the specifications before new bids are sought. It isn't right that people along the line of a paved street should be forced to pay for street improvements that are being made five blocks away."

WEDDED BLISS IS THEIRS. Connors-Bray.

Dean McGinnity performed the ceremony this morning that made Miss Hattie Bray Mrs. Joseph Connors. The wedding took place at St. Patrick's church at 7:30 high mass, many relatives and friends being present. At noon the happy couple left for Chicago to spend a week or more with the bride's mother. They will then return to make their home in the Stratton residence on South Bluff street. Good wishes from a host of friends will await them.

TOUCHING TRIBUTE TO WOMEN A Long-Haired Poet With Soul of Fire Fingers His Harp.

Ambrose Bierce publishes two verses which he says he received from "an infamous correspondent who prudently conceals a name that is doubtless to be found in half the prison registers of a suffering land." We publish them in order to enable our readers to join in anathematizing the author.

The Lord he made her snow white hands and shapely feet to match; The devil 'twas who made the nails to dig and fight and scratch. The Lord he made her shell-like ears to hear his sacred word; The devil made foul gossip sweet, and that is all she heard.

The Lord he breathed a soul within, to live and thrive for aye; The devil breathed a breath of sin, and touched it with decay. The Lord he gave her grace and youth—for she is ever young; The devil—gee whizz! don't he square accounts with mankind when he made her long, elaborate, pivot-in-the-middle tongue!

FATHER BOWEHATES TO PAY $5000

That Naughty Valentine Still Bobs Up in the Rock County Courts.

Rev. Father Bowe hesitates about paying that $5,000 judgment which stands on the circuit court records against him. The court says he must pay it for sending bad valentines to his niece, Mrs. M. H. Ford, but he says he hasn't the money. Father Bowe was brought before Justice Towne, of Edgerton, yesterday, on supplemental proceedings, to ascertain, if possible, if the reverend gentleman had any property other than that allowed by law. J. L. Mahoney appeared for Father Bowe, and Olin & Butler and M. J. Feeney conducted the prosecution. The examination was conducted until Wednesday, August 29.

SHIPPED A CAR OF HOLSTEIN COWS

Judge Phelps Disposes of a Lot of His Choice Stock.

Judge M. M. Phelps today shipped a car load of Holstein cows from his Seven Oaks dairy to W. J. C. Baldorf, M. D., president of Magnetic Institute Grand Rapids, Mich.

Dr. Baldorf recognizes the influence of having good healthy milk for his patients, and proposes to have a personal supervision over the dairy that supplies it. For that purpose he has purchased a farm near that city and will stock it with these Holstein cows. Mr. Phelps has a herd of these cows all raised on his Seven Oaks dairy farm and says he has enough left to supply the patrons of his dairy with the best milk delivered in the city.

MANY WOMEN PAY THEIR TAXES

They Are the First to Visit Treasurer Fathers' Office.

"It is quite a curious thing," remarked City Treasurer Fathers this morning, "to see the large number of ladies who come in here to pay taxes. So far, three-fourths of the callers have been ladies. Most of these own the property in their own names, while the others come in to pay their husbands'."

He was asked if tax payers were coming promptly to pay.

"Not very," he answered. "Most of those who have called are small tax payers. They appear to be the first to call. However, I am kept busy writing tax receipts, and taking money."

CHICKEN SHOOTING WILL BE GOOD

Sportsmen Look Forward to September With Eagerness—Plenty of Birds.

Prairie-chicken shooting around here promises to be better this season than for some years. The birds nested early owing to warm weather, and the rains were not sufficiently heavy to flood out the nests. The result is that nearly every hen is now followed about by a full brood of young, which will be big and strong-winged when the shooting season opens September 1.

WOOL TASTED SALTY AND WAS REFUSED

DENNIS RYAN AND B. R. CLAWSON DISAGREED.

Matter Will Be Settled in Court—Footville Man Says His Clip Was Not Doctored with a View To Increasing Its Weight—Brodhead Buyer Determined.

Dennis Ryan of Footville, may be compelled to commence legal proceedings to get rid of his wool clip, which amounts to about one hundred and eighty dollars. Mr. Ryan sold the clip some time ago to B. R. Clawson, the wool to be delivered in this city. The wool was brought to the depot this morning, when Mr. Clawson refused to accept it, first claiming that he did not buy it, and then that it had been "salted." The wool was bought by a Mr. Ballard who represented himself as Clawson's agent or buyer. The salting of wool draws moisture, and consequently makes it heavier. Mr. Ryan says if the wool was salted it was at the time of shearing, and was for the purpose of preserving it. However, attorneys were consulted, and Mr. Ryan afterwards made a tender of the wool, which was refused by Clawson. The next step will probably be in a justice's court.

Dr. H. A. McChesney, Janesville, Wisconsin.

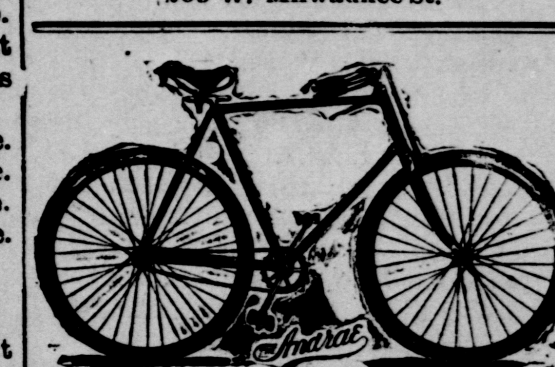

Dear Sir:—As you know I began treatment two weeks ago for a deafness of ten years' standing induced by a catarrh of the ear, creating a continuous ringing noise that made it impossible to hear or catch a sound at any considerable distance. In that brief space (14 days) I find myself so greatly relieved that in going to church yesterday and occupying a pew in the rear, I was surprised that I could hear distinctly every word from the pulpit, a blessing that I have not enjoyed for years. I join most heartily in recommending your Catarrh Cure to everybody afflicted with catarrh in any form, and particularly of the head and throat, and advise them to try your medicines, as they will certainly find immediate and sure relief, and I firmly believe a permanent cure.

Your friend and well wisher, OSCAR COBB. Dr. McChesney's Catarrh Cure is on sale by all druggists. Don't experiment with inferior remedies.

IS A NOTABLE JEW IN MANY RESPECTS

DR. HERMAN BENDELL SCHOLAR AND PHILANTHROPIST.

He Also Wears a Grand Army of the Republic Badge and Is a Member of the American Loyal Legion—His Career Sketched.

DR. HERMAN BENDELL, one of the notable Jews of America, was born in Albany, N. Y., Oct. 28, 1843, his grand parents having been among the first Jews to settle in that city. He received his education in the public and select schools of that city, and entered the army early in the civil war as an assistant surgeon, before completing his studies at the Albany Medical college. He returned from the front in 1862, in order to be graduated with his class, and immediately re-entered active service as surgeon of the Eighty-sixth regiment, New York volunteers. He served in the Army of the Potomac and in the Sheridan campaign in the Shenandoah Valley, and though one of the youngest surgeons in the army, filled the responsible position of surgeon-in-charge of the depot field hospital of the Army of the Potomac. For meritorious services rendered, he was brevetted a lieutenant-colonel after the close of the war. He was appointed superintendent of Indian affairs for Arizona by Gen. Grant, which position he held until the office was abolished in 1872. During his incumbency he, together with Gen. O. O. Howard, brought the first delegation of Apache Indians that ever came to Washington, to negotiate a treaty of peace. He was commissioned by President Grant consul to Denmark, and before his return to America continued his studies in ophthalmology at Heidelberg, where he became an assistant to the late Prof. Otto Becker. Dr. Bendell returned to his native city in 1876, where he has resided since, and where he has filled many important positions. He served for six years as a member of the board of public instruction, two years of which time he was president, and when the new board was created, in 1892, he was again selected for a term of five years. He is ophthalmic and aural surgeon on the staff of the Albany City hospital, ophthalmic and aural surgeon to St. Vincent's Orphan asylum and St. Francis de Sales Orphan asylum; medical adviser of the Jewish Home society, of which he was for a number of years secretary. He is a past president of the Albany County Medical society and of the Alumni association of the Albany Medical college, and now holds the chair of physiology in the medical college from which he was graduated. Dr. Bendell, while an industrious practitioner of his specialty, is active in all matters pertaining to his profession, devotes much time to educational affairs, and is prominent in military circles. He is an active member of the Grand Army of the Republic, of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, and is surgeon of the Third Brigade of the New York state National guard. He was chosen last year as president of the Medical Society of the State of New York, having previously served with distinction on some of the most important committees. In 1873 Dr. Bendell married Wilhelmina Lewi, the oldest daughter of his preceptor, and has three children.

"YANKEE DOODLE."

It was first played in derision of Continental Soldiers. Louis C. Elson, the musical critic, in a lecture said that "Yankee Doodle" was suggested by the motley appearance of the colonial troops when they mustered for the Indian wars in 1755. An English wit composed it, and in the slang of the day, "doodle" meant a simpleton, and "macaroni," a dandy. Mr. Elson said that "Yankee Doodle" was the beginning and end of the Revolutionary war, for at Lexington the British played it in derision, and at the surrender of Cornwallis the Americans paid it back with interest, making the British prisoners march by the same tune. At the present time Europe regards "Hail Columbia" as our national anthem, and the first edition of this song was shown by Mr. Elson in illustrating the crude harmonies with which it was born. The tune existed for some time as a march, but was first sung in Philadelphia by an actor named Fox at his benefit. The audience went wild over it, and it was encored eight times. Mr. Elson attributed the origin of the music of the "The Star Spangled Banner" to an English drinking song, written in 1770.

WHEN MA WAS NEAR.

I didn't have one bit of fear
'Bout nuthin' 'till when ma was near.
The clouds could bank up in the sky,
Or fore the wind in white streaks fly,
But somehow 'nuther I didn't keer
A snap for them—when ma was near.

Goblins that sneak at night to sneer
Us little folks—when ma was near
Jes' fairly flew, and wouldn't stay
Under the cooling of her touch,
But seemed to stand in mortal fear
Of ever' thing—when ma was near.

It wasn't bad to be sick where
You felt the joy that ma was near.
The throbs of pain couldn't stay much
Under the cooling of her touch,
But seemed to stand in mortal fear
Of ever' thing—when ma was near.

—Edward N. Wood in Atlanta Constitution.

KISSED THE BRIDE.

Zeke and I are twins. We were, in fact, at the time of my story. Always have been as far back as I can remember, and that is a good long while. I know that is the reason they called us Zeke and Zed—Zeke and Zedekiah, but somehow we could never quite forgive them for giving us those names. We are alike, and always have been. When we were boys, mother had a great fancy for similarity in our dress. A patch on one knee meant a similar patch on the other boy's knee. The storekeeper never tried to sell her samples of goods unless the remnant contained enough for two pairs of pants or two coats. Hence none but our parents knew us apart. Zeke had a large wart upon his left hand, while I had none. He had often tried to remove it, for people were ever on the lookout for that wart. But it was not to be got rid of so easily.

We were very fond of each other. I am sure up to the time of our manhood one never did nor could do anything without the other one at his heels. But when we were 21 Zeke did something which left me entirely in the cold. I have never quite forgiven him yet. He fell in love. And, whereas before I was never too near, I was now altogether too near and one too many. It was very bitter to me—to be put in a secondary place, and so I told him.

"Go and do likewise," was all he said.

It made me feel rather mean, and I felt inclined to give him something to turn the channel of his thoughts, but somehow I loved him too much to bother him, and so we jugged along for a year.

We used in those days to have singing and spelling schools, and it was at those places that we young people paired off for the walk home. One night I stopped and talked with some of the boys after Zeke and Nellie had gone home, so I had a good chance to observe them just ahead of me as I neared them on my way home. The moon was bright and the snow white, and—well, Zeke stopped over to look inside that hood so many times or to do something else that I made up my mind the wedding must be very near at hand. I thought Zeke ought to take me into his confidence in this matter as well as in all others. I think so still. I would never have been half mad at him if he had. But he and father would stand out and view that south 40 acre lot and pace off the plot for the house and one for the barn, and if I neared them they would begin to talk about fertilizing it for next year's corn crop. Had I been a little lad of 10 I would never have cared— but Zeke's twin and treated like a stranger! I could not guess the cause of Zeke's actions.

But in later years, when I found a little lass just to my eye, and when other fellows looked on her, I felt rather selfish, and—well, "stingy" too. I know now, because I looked like Zeke and talked like Zeke and behaved like Zeke. He, Zeke, Dune, was afraid Nellie Lambert would swap twins. But then I was only angry. As I said, I knew the wedding could not be many moons away. In those days "belling" was the fashion. We unto each newly married couple if they did not appear at the door during the serenade and stand treat for the crowd. I mentioned in half anger to my best friend next to Zeke one night at the singing school that I supposed Zeke would soon quit such places of amusement and settle down by his own fireside. Of course they wanted to find out when the affair would take place. I confessed ignorance.

The following plan was matured. But I will relate the results instead of the plan, only I will say first if Zeke had used me like a twin brother ought I would have been better too. I feel half ashamed of myself now as I sit grinning and a grandfather. To be sure, I laugh over the joke yet, but it was rather hard on Nelly and your humble servant too.

I was to find the secret plans from Nell herself. And I did. We were at singing school, Zeke and I, and, according to our custom, dressed just like I had seen Zeke get through the ceremony so often I knew just how. So while one of the other boys kept Zeke at the schoolhouse I took Nelly under my wing and escorted her home. Zeke was a little anxious to be gone, they said, but Bob said the girls were waiting in the entry (so they were, most of them), and he was anxious to lay the plans for a grand singing and exhibition in the near future, so kept Zeke all right.

But to return to Nell and myself. It was wicked, to be sure, but I took her little hand in mine and pressed it as I knew Zeke did and walked on silently. "There's Dave and Jen behind us," I whispered at length, "so we'll talk low."

"Yes," she replied. I hardly knew what to say next, yet half the distance was traveled, and I was listening for Zeke's stride behind us.

"What makes you go so fast, Zeke," she whispered. "It will be over too soon."

"To keep them behind us," I replied. "Let them pass," and she stopped still, and Dave and Jen laughed gayly as they went on.

"I want to ask you, Zeke, if we had not better have breakfast at 8 instead of 7, for the hour is rather early, and I am afraid Cousin Helen won't get over in time," she whispered still. My heart went clap-a-to-clap, for here was the nugget of gold coming unasked. "Perhaps," I whispered back. "Oh, Nell, how can I wait for the day?"

"Pshaw, you silly boy!" And then she prattled on about the linen her grandma was making for her and her dress that was quite done, but no exact time had she yet mentioned.

"And to think, I don't believe any one outside of my own family mistrusts one word." She looked up in my face. "No, nor in mine," I smiled back.

"But they will before long," I ventured as I unlatched her gate, hoping against hope she would give me what I was after, and she sweetly put up her lips and said, "Just one more day, my Zeke." How could I kiss that sweet mouth? I would have given my gray coat just then to have been Zeke and he me. I had not bargained for a kiss; but, then, was she not as good as a sister? So I kissed her and held her in my arms a moment and whispered "Good night" as she went in.

My cheeks burned, my fingers tingled, my heart fluttered, so I broke into a rapid run and fled homeward.

Meantime Bob left Zeke, and the other boys came back round them and asked questions and laid plans. A ringing laugh now and then from the entry allayed Zeke's fears concerning Nell for awhile. As the plan was laid one of the girls said as he came out:

"Zeke, Nell couldn't wait so long. But she doesn't want you to feel bad about it."

"Why, no," Zeke replied pleasantly. "I couldn't get away sooner." But his face showed his disappointment.

We had found out the secret at least. And now our luck hung upon the chance of Zeke and Nell not speaking, of that night's work. Slim thread it was, but anyway we could serenade them just the same.

We were busy. Masks to make, drums to find and horns and bells and old tin pans and—well, you young boys know how it is told by your fathers, and you old boys have all been there.

I knew Zeke had rented rooms in an L of Farmer Judson's house, and by peering into the windows we saw everything was in readiness, even to fuel in the woodbox.

They were married a few minutes before 8 (since learned it), had breakfast at 8 and repaired to their new home to look it over. Father and mother said they were going to town and did, but stopped there on their way hither. None of my brothers and sisters mistrusted one word, and some of Nelly's cousins were as ignorant as we. She was the only child, so had no one to keep it from at home.

Zeke since has told me the boys had made their bags about no one ever escaping a "belling" where they were, and for this reason and this alone had he kept it secret.

As soon as night had spread her wings over the earth we gathered our trappings together for our grand serenade. We were not quite sure whether the bride and groom would immediately settle down in their new home or tarry a day or so at the old home. We knew well that the minister from Glendale had returned home, for I myself had met him with his wife in a closed carriage that afternoon. But as twilight approached a cheerful light from Zeke's new home told very plainly to us where they were. We marshaled our forces and took our places in line. Not a drum was heard, not a bugle note, not the clasp of a broken bell, though I have often wondered how we all kept from shouting aloud as we peared into each other's faces.

Tramp, tramp, along the slippery road! Forward in an irregular triangle we stood before the lighted rooms and commenced our bombardment. Louder and louder grew our frenzied music, as no one opened the door. Finally the door was opened, and we were invited in. Just behind me was Bob, enormously padded and painted, and in a disguised voice he said, pushing me a little ahead (I was their captain), "Salute the bride!" In a little alcove stood two forms with something white thrown over them. I supposed Nelly had done this to hide her blushing face. So thinking of that other kiss out in the moonlight I strode up to them, picked out Nell by the skirts visible beneath the cover, pulled off the same with a quick motion and planted a kiss upon the rosy mouth of the blushing bride—or so I supposed. About upon shout came from those behind me while I rubbed my eyes to see if I was indeed awake.

For there before the stood not Nellie and Zeke, but Mr. Whitney and his white haired little wife. Wild with the determination to redeem myself and punish those who had caused me to make this mistake, I ransacked the house for the ones I most wished to find. Others helped me, but it was finally told us by Nelly's father that the bride and groom had gone with the minister to Glendale, there to take a conveyance to Pomeroy's Corner to visit with relatives for several weeks. During the excitement I had forgotten to disguise my voice. It was too late when I recovered myself. I was "sold" completely. "Salute the bride" was hurled at me for years, and always up my back would creep the chills as they had that night when I found I had hugged and kissed old Mrs. Whitney. Nellie told me when she came home if I had not treated her so shabbily that night in the moonshine her heart would have repented her before she had laid all the plans. The tour was planned but an hour before the wedding, when they happened to stumble upon the truth.

And now I don't know why I have told this. I never want to inflict the public with matter which has no moral or lesson. This has none unless it be "do unto others," etc. I think I was served just right for playing the detective. Yet Zeke either ought to have told me all or not have been my twin.—Philadelphia Times.

The Coming of Summer is Supposed to End the Social Season.

Dinners, cotillions and balls are done. Society seeks rest at the shore or mountains. But is it found? Fashion's sway still rules. The belle and chaperone alike are fatigued. Almost as much to do as in the city. Just as tiring because it is so hot.

Johann Hoff's Malt Extract then taken makes the Summer easy. It banishes fatigue, and fortifies the system for Winter, aids digestion, gives health and strength.

Beware of imitations. Look for signature of "Johann Hoff" on neck label.

A GREAT NUISANCE.

Judic Chollet Attacks the Ubiquitous and Popular Sprinkling Cart.

One of the great annoyances of the hot season in the city, to women at least, is the ubiquitous sprinkling cart, which keeps the streets full of mud all summer. The chief disadvantage of rainy weather is not the falling water, but the sloppy condition of the thoroughfares, ruinous to boots and skirts alike. The sprinkling cart induces this same troublesome state of things while we are enduring the oppressiveness of heat and drought and are ill prepared, in muslin gowns and thin shoes, to wade through a slough every time we cross a street. Dust is less unpleasant as dust than as black, greasy mud, which sticks pertinaciously and makes a stain that can with difficulty be washed out. It is surprising that there are not more complaints upon this subject, for no woman likes to have her light lawn and silk skirts grimed with dirt and the gloss of her pretty shoes spoiled before she is a block away from home, so that all the time she is out she is conscious of looking dragged and untidy, to say nothing of the long work of rehabilitation after she returns.

Besides the mud through which the foot passenger is obliged to walk, she has the additional annoyance of the spray of black splatters whirled off the wheels of every passing vehicle. Too often a complete costume, from the top of the delicate chiffon parasol to the hem on the dimity skirt, bears evidence of having gone through this ordeal, and the experience is not a gratifying one to the wearer of the articles. It would seem that it ought to be possible to lay the dust of the streets without deluging them, and that common sense would teach the driver of the machine to cut off the supply of water when he comes to a crossing. Chicago now has a woman to look after the streets, so perhaps a better system will be inaugurated and a good example of reform set to other cities.

The illustration given shows a walking costume of light gray serge. The collar, belt and band of the sleeve puffs are of gray silk. The buttons are mother of pearl, and the lower skirt, of which a glimpse is caught under the drapery, is trimmed with a band of eucalyptus green velvet.

DECORATIVE NOTES.

A Few Suggestions and Remarks Worth Noting.

When a fringed tablecloth is used, the napkins should also be fringed.

It is said that colored hosiery may be prevented from fading by washing it in lukewarm water and then soaking it in 10 quarts of cold water to which have been added a tumbler of vinegar and a handful of salt.

Japanese cotton crape may be obtained at 25 cents a yard in really beautiful patterns. The design is stamped in gold and colors, and the goods not only makes artistic curtains for country houses, but is altogether suitable for covering couch cushions. As cushion covers have to be renewed ed so frequently in order that they may be always bright and fresh it is not worth while to buy expensive material, especially when cheap stuffs are as pretty as they are now.

Artificial flowers are coming into use in Paris for corsage decoration. They are perfect imitations of nature and are selected of a tint to match the trimmings of the costume. A cluster is worn near the right shoulder and at the left side of the waist.

French mothers are discarding the long Greenaway coats and gowns hitherto so universally popular for little people and are providing their children with shorter and more convenient if less picturesque garments.

Heavy English crape is going out of use for mourning, being replaced by the lighter French article.

It is said that black hosiery is at length losing its hold on public favor, but it is very unlikely that it will be entirely abandoned since no color looks so well with the black boots and shoes ordinarily worn. Tiny brushes and combs for the baby's basket, usually seen in white or ivory celluloid, are now shown in the most delicate shades of pink and turquoise blue.

Embroidery and white crocheted thread lace are the preferred fancy work of the moment. A sketch is given of a child's embroidered apron of white linen worked in a cross stitch pattern with red or blue cotton. The edge of the skirt, pockets and ruffles is embroidered in scallops.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

BLOCKADED BY THE BEES.

Five Thousand of the Insects Make a Baltimore Street Lively.

Hundreds of pedestrians and elevated and surface car passengers, truck drivers and residents of Baltimore witnessed a novel sight the other morning. About 9 o'clock a dense swarm of bees silently and suddenly swept down on that region, and for nearly three hours made the crosswalks impassable. Throngs of people gathered in groups in the adjoining corners, and drivers of vehicles of every description from time to time made traffic impossible. A humorous side of the occurrence was when an open car passed. It was compelled to drive through the thickest portion of the swarm. The sudden head-ducking, the speedy covering of faces, accompanied by the smothered ejaculations of the women and the less elegant expletives of the men, added to the fractions antics of the car horses and the frantic efforts of the driver to beat off the bees convulsed the people on the sidewalk. At 1 o'clock three elevated road employees swooped down on the bees. After half an hour of fruitless efforts to dislodge them they gave up the fight in disgust. Scores of suggestions, witty, wise or worthless, came from all sides. Finally Frank Eddy, who was one of the passengers on the elevated road, who had been stung, hit upon a plan which, after patient effort, resulted in the capture of several thousand bees. An empty nail-keg, with one of the chimes knocked out, was smeared with molasses and suspended from a guard rail of the elevated road, and dropped directly in the midst of the whirling mass. The scheme was successful. Mr. Eddy is proud of his hunt. He estimates the bees numerically at 5,000, and the value of the captives at close to $50.

TOOK OUT THE WRONG EYE.

"A few years ago," said Charles J. Patterson of Philadelphia, "I learned the secret of the life of a man who had passed more than a quarter of a century with scarcely a smile. He had been a physician and surgeon and on one occasion had to remove an injured eye in order to save the other eye and prevent total blindness. The night before the operation he had been drinking heavily with some friends, and although the following morning he was sober, his hand was unsteady and his nerves were unstrung. After administering chloroform he made a fatal and horrible blunder, removing the well eye by mistake and thus consigning his patient to perpetual blindness. The moment he discovered his error he turned the man over to a competent surgeon, deeded everything he possessed to him and hurried from the neighborhood like a convicted thief. The remainder of his life was one constant round of remorse, and he rapidly developed into a confirmed misanthrope. The secret of his life was known to a number of people, but when it was finally revealed to me it explained a mystery and made me respect the man, for however grave was his original blunder, which in some respects was, of course, worse than a crime, his repentance was of the most genuine character."

INDIANS' BELIEF IN MAGIC.

American Indians View the Mysterious Much as the Asiatics Do.

Very reluctantly do civilized Indians give up their ideas of magic. The idea of worshipping growing objects is quite a settled one among the tribes, and some of the stories which connect corn and flowers with beneficent deities are very pleasing and attractive. Animals, too, are spoken of in a very singular and superstitious manner, and the different sizes of beasts which are hunted is accounted for in a story of the creation which is even more realistic and practical than the one told in the first chapter of Genesis. This story, which is frequently repeated with variations, is that at the time of the creation all the beasts of the field and forests clamored for priority in size. Each was vainglorious and dictatorial, and one after another was being humbled by being made smaller than a hated enemy, the idea being that everything human and otherwise that was born had a prior existence, and came into the world with the benefit of experience thus derived. The doctrine of the transmigration of souls is so general among Indians of various tribes that there was nothing at all peculiar about this, and it is very probable that some of the early writers on this subject got their ideas from exceptionally intelligent exponents of Indian Buddhism or something very similar to it.

In a Tree.

A maple tree 100 years old, which stands on the left bank of the river Oder, in Germany, has been curiously converted into a circular two-storied house. A flight of steps leads up to the first story, where the branches have been woven together and form a firm leafy floor. Above this floor is another, formed in the same way; and the ends of the branches have been woven into solid walls and cut so as to admit the light through eight windows.

Size and Color of Human Hair.

Actual measurements have shown that the size of a hair depends much upon its color and that such filaments on the human head vary from the 250th to the 600th part of an inch, blonde hair being finest and red the coarsest. Dr. Zung, German specialist, says the average number of hairs on a blonde head is 140,000; on the red not more than 90,000.

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!

A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric currents conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they treat the part affected.

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

Restorative Nervine positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.
